Capital Air Services adds more luxury to its helicopter fleet

Oxford-based helicopter charter company Capital Air Services (CAS) has added another EC-135 to its diverse fleet of twin-engine helicopters.

G-PLAL joined Capital Air Services this week and has already carried its first group of VIPs across the Channel to Paris. CAS's latest Eurocopter EC 135 is the most recent version of the twin-engined IFR helicopter and brings the EC135 fleet total to three – making CAS the world's largest operator of corporate EC135s.

As well as providing increased charter availability to the company's clients and brokers, the larger fleet will allow CAS to fly parties of up to 18 in the same lavish style.

"What people are perhaps unaware of" said Michael Hampton, chief pilot and MD of Capital Air Services, "is that the EC135 can be chartered for a surprisingly affordable price. One wouldn't ordinarily associate opulence with economy of cost, but upgrading from a Twin Squirrel AS355 to one of our EC135's is only a fractional price increase."

The EC135 is well known for its refined ride and spacious leather cabin, so the company expects no shortage of bookings for the third in its growing fleet. At a fraction of the cost of chartering its nearest rivals in size and noblesse, the Agusta 109 & Sikorsky 76, CAS continues to ensure that customers aren't overpaying for quality.

To book a flight in G-PLAL, the other EC135s or indeed one of an array of helicopters, contact Capital Air Services on 01865 370739 or visit the website at www.capitalairservices.co.uk
